Mo Ibrahim Foundation ‘Governance for Development in Africa Initiative’ launched at SOAS

The Centre of African Studies, University of London, at SOAS has received a tremendous boost with a donation to fund an initiative on Governance for Development in Africa, which will create a dedicated environment to support Africans to study both the legal aspects of governance and the links between economic development and governance.

This extraordinary gift from the Mo Ibrahim Foundation aims to enable Africans to improve the quality of governance in their countries by supporting them to build their skills and talents within an expert academic environment.

The Mo Ibrahim Foundation’s £1.375 million gift will fund four dedicated programmes at SOAS: Leadership Development Fellowships; Residential Schools in Africa; Governance Lectures; and PhD Scholarships.

Prof Paul Webley, Director and Principal explains, ‘This gift will have a tremendous impact, not only for SOAS, but for the future of Africa. We are delighted that Dr Mo Ibrahim and his fellow Trustees are working with SOAS on such an exciting project, which will have a impact on Africa for years to come’.

We encourage enquiries about Applications for PhDs on topics relating to Governance and Development in Africa and for Visiting Fellowships on the topics of Leadership and Development (the latter applies also to non-academic applicants: the scheme will target young people with demonstrable leadership potential within their sector, enabling them to develop knowledge, contacts, and strategic plans during an 8-10 week period based in London).

Conference: Seeking Refuge: caught between bureaucracy, lawyers and public indifference?
April 16th-17th, 2009 at the School of Oriental and African Studies, London

Funded by the UK Economic and Social Research Council

What is the situation confronting 'refugees' and immigrants who enter Europe and North America? While this issue has received considerable attention in the press, there has been too little in-depth research examining the issues which confront those who seek asylum. This conference seeks to remedy that gap by bringing together innovative new research – by anthropologists, sociologists, lawyers, historians, social scientists, asylum/immigrant advocates and human rights activists – in the form of cutting-edge case studies of the political institutions, bureaucratic obstacles, legal issues and socio-political process that asylum seekers are forced to confront.

Case studies are invited on:

- The impact of national and regional immigration controls – including regional cooperation pacts e.g. linking the EU and North Africa, the US and Canada – on individuals seeking asylum. How do individuals enter? Do these barriers force asylum seekers to enter illegally and if so at what cost? Does illegal entry affect an individual’s subsequent ability to claim asylum?
- The experience of individuals who are or have sought asylum. How do individuals navigate asylum procedures? What if any is the key to obtaining recognition? What are the barriers?
- Lawyers, lawyering and immigration-related litigation?
- The importance of cultural, gender, religious or class differences in the outcome of asylum appeals?
- The impact of asylum and immigration policies on the rights of asylum applicants and immigrants?
- The role of key institutions – e.g. the 'home office', courts, police, NGOs, community groups, political parties/groups – on refugees and asylum decisions?
- The impact of 9/11 and the introduction of terrorist legislation on the ability of individuals to seek and obtain asylum?

To register and for updates (e.g. information on fees, hotels, booking a place, key note speakers etc) see: www.nomadit.co.uk/refuge.

Paper abstracts of no more than 250 words should be submitted online by November 1st 2008. Individuals will receive notification of acceptance by November 15th. Complete papers should be submitted for circulation by March 15, 2009.

ZIMBABWE: PROSPECTS AND POSSIBILITIES

Seminar with Brian Raftopoulos

Friday 19th September, 12:30-2pm, Room 116, SOAS

The ongoing mediation on Zimbabwe, led by President Mbeki, has opened up a narrow window of opportunity to avoid further deterioration in its political and economic fortunes. But as haggling continues in Harare, whatever deal emerges from the talks will be a political fix based on hard bargaining, not lofty ideals. Brian Raftopoulos is a leading Zimbabwean scholar, activist and political analyst, and has co-authored many articles and books on the crisis in Zimbabwe including Zimbabwe: Injustice and Political Reconciliation (2005) and “Desperate Days in Zimbabwe” (2007, Review of African Political Economy). The Fish Eagle’s Lament – Travels in South West Ethiopia - an illustrated talk by Gerard Pillai
Over fifty fascinating tribes currently live in the South West of Ethiopia. Despite the onset of the 21st century many of them still follow customs and rituals centuries old. Gerard encounters tribes like the Mursi, who wear large clay lip plates; the Hamar, whose initiation into adulthood involves jumping over bulls; the Nyangatom, who beautify their bodies by scarring patterns using thorns.
Gerard is a keen photographer and his narrative will be complemented by numerous vivid slides of outstanding clarity and composition. The audience will get an intimate and heartfelt visual and verbal insight into the customs, dress, food, landscape and wildlife of one of the last true tribal lands in Africa.

AFRICA: ALTERED STATES, ORDINARY MIRACLES by Richard Dowden
With a panel discussion “The theft of Africa’s democracy”
Wednesday 1st October, 6pm, Brunei Suite, SOAS, followed by a reception
Africa is a vast continent, a continent of people, and not a place of exotica. It is clear that Richard Dowden understands this, and one could not ask for a more qualified author to explore Africa’s complexity
~ Chinua Achebe
Richard Dowden, Director of the RAS, is also one of Britain’s leading correspondents on Africa. His first book looks at why Africa is the way it is. It is about its differences and its diversities. Each country is unique and, chapter by chapter, this book lets you get to know them. There are tales of cults and commerce in Senegal and traditional spirituality in Sierra Leone; there is an analysis of the impact of oil and the internet on Nigeria and aid on Sudan; there is a deeper probing into what has gone so badly wrong in Zimbabwe, Rwanda, Burundi and the Congo. And from the individual stories of failure and success comes a surprising portrait of a new Africa emerging: self confident, middle class, professional.

THE TROUBLE WITH AID: WHY LESS COULD MEAN MORE FOR AFRICA by Jonathan Glennie
Book launch with a panel discussion
Tuesday 4th November, 6pm, Brunei Suite, SOAS, followed by a reception
Africa is poor. If we send it money it will be less poor. It seems perfectly logical, doesn't it? In this book, Christian Aid’s Jonathan Glennie argues that government aid to Africa actually has many very harmful effects, and that aid has often meant more poverty, more hungry people, worse basic services for poor people and damage to already precarious democratic institutions. Rather than giving more aid to Africa, Glennie makes the controversial case that it should be reduced. Through an honest assessment of both the positive and negative consequences of aid, this book will show you why. In association with Zed Books and the International African Institute.

STOPPING AFRICA’S WARS with former President Masire and Lord Mark Malloch-Brown

Sir Ketumile Masire has been a key mediator in conflicts including the Democratic Republic of Congo and Lesotho. Joined by Lord Malloch Brown, Minister for Africa and former Under Secretary-General of the United Nations he will give his reflections and analysis on conflict resolution efforts in Africa. LIFE AFTER VIOLENCE: A PEOPLE’S STORY OF BURUNDI by Peter Uvin
Tuesday 9th December, 6.15pm, Room 116, SOAS
Burundi recently emerged from twelve years of devastating civil war that left hundreds of thousands dead. In this groundbreaking book on conflict and society in Africa, for the first time, farmers, artisans, traders, mothers, soldiers and students talk about the past, the future, war and peace, their hopes for a better life and their relationships with each other and the state. Weaving a rich tapestry, Peter Uvin pitches the ideas and aspirations of people on the ground against the theory and assumptions often made by the international development and peace-building agencies and organisations. In doing this, he illuminates both shared goals and misunderstandings. In association with Zed Books and IAI.

Building scenarios enables such a dialogue. The workshop is aimed at professionals in the private and public sectors and from NGOs. It will guide participants through a methodology of building and using scenarios as well as how to work with existing scenarios. The sessions will be interactive and strengthened by the high-calibre of experienced and skilled participants.

Elaine Peck
Society for Francophone Postcolonial Studies Conference 2008
Rethinking Human Zoos
Institut Français du Royaume-Uni, London
28-29 November 2008

'Human zoos', forgotten symbols of the colonial era, have been largely repressed in collective memory. In these 'anthropo-zoological' exhibitions, 'exotic' individuals were placed alongside wild beasts and presented behind bars or in enclosures. Human zoos were a key factor in the progressive shift from scientific to popular racism. Through Barnum's freak shows, Hagenbeck's 'ethnic shows', French-style villages nègres, as well as the great universal and colonial exhibitions, the West invented the 'savage', exhibited the 'peoples of the world', whilst in many cases preparing for or contributing to their colonisation. This first mass contact between 'us' and 'them', between the West and elsewhere, created an invisible border. Measured by scientists, exploited in shows, used in official exhibitions, these men, women and children became extras in cultures that were not their own.

Since its first publication by La Découverte in 2001, the collection entitled Zoos humains has triggered widespread debate about colonial representation and has obliged scholars in a range of disciplines to rethink the relationship between anthropology, science, spectacle and Empire. The present colloquium coincides with the publication by Liverpool University Press of a new English-language version of the collection. Based on the original French-language volume edited by ACHAC, but with a number of newly commissioned chapters, this new edition of Human Zoos brings together contributions by international specialists on this subject, some of whom will speak at the conference. The volume invites re-exploration of the colonial exoticisation and 'spectacularisation' of other cultures, a process that is to be associated with many contemporary, postcolonial stereotypes.

Conference: Risk and Africa -- Conceptualizing risk in the context of contemporary Africa
International Symposium 27-29 November 2008, Bayreuth, Germany

The relationship between risk and modernity has stimulated controversial debates about the changing nature of risk and the dynamics of contemporary society. While it is acknowledged that modern society, through technological development, has been successful in using risk to improve livelihoods, there is also widespread consensus over the costs of such improvements in the form of ecological degradation, industrial hazards and exaggerated societal expectations. Therefore, even though the general assumption is that modern society has been largely successful in dealing with risk it is still felt that the future of modern societies depends on their ability to identify and adopt suitable approaches to manage risk, deal with uncertainty and develop pathways towards sustainability. However, it is important to note that the current debate on the concepts of risk and "risk society" is heavily skewed in favour of European historical experience.

By distinguishing between concepts of risk in modern to late-modern societies and those in the rest of the world the debate drives a perhaps unintended and possibly unwarranted epistemological wedge between North and South. In other words, the debate would seem to suggest that the concept of risk refers to fundamentally different empirical and epistemological objects: "Here" we talk about manufactured technological risks, environmental awareness and the social construction of risk as symptoms of reflexive modernity. "There" the focus is on vulnerability, natural hazards and coping strategies in the context of state failure, desintegrating markets and (more or less) pre-modern societies. However, this wedge can be questioned on two accounts. Firstly, increasing awareness of technological hazards, pollution and climate change, especially in urban Africa, as well as the introduction of new forms of insurance and the restructuring of civil society are just some of the recent developments that appear to invite us to be sceptical of prevailing notions of risk and their (ir)relevance to and in Africa.

Secondly, the conceptualization of risk in Africa -- just as in any other parts of the South -- cannot be done in isolation, for there is a sense in which the success or failure of attempts at dealing with risk elsewhere inheres with Africa. In other words, issues concerning uneven development, increased economic exchange and cooperation as well as environmental and developmental discourses need to be addressed in an increasingly globalising world.

In exploring new ways of conceptualising risk in Africa the symposium will seek to address the challenge of making theoretical and methodological advances in risk research relevant to an understanding of processes of social change in the continent. Contributions are invited which explore this relevance in different fields (social, political, environmental, etc.) and from different perspectives (geography, sociology, economy, social anthropology, ecology, etc.). Research-based contributions are particularly welcome, including studies of cases from outside of the African continent for comparisons.

The symposium is jointly organised by ZENEB, Centre for Natural Risks and Development and BIGSAS, Bayreuth International Graduate School of African Studies.

ZENEB serves as a social science oriented research network on risks and disasters in developing countries. The main objectives are: (i) to implement, promote and support research in order to acquire scientific knowledge on disaster prevention and disaster coping in developing countries, (ii) to link scientists that do research in the field of disasters and development, (iii) to advance innovative methods of integrated analysis of the interactions between complex natural and social systems under the impact of extreme events.

3rd European Conference on African Studies

The members of AEGIS (Africa-Europe Group for Interdisciplinary Studies) and the Institute of African Studies at the University of Leipzig are hosting AEGIS third biennial conference in Leipzig, Germany, from 4 to 7 June 2009. The overall theme of ECAS 3 is "Respacing Africa".

The first European Conference on African Studies (ECAS) was held at the School of Oriental and African Studies and the Institute of Commonwealth Studies in London in July 2005; the second Conference was held at the African Studies Centre in Leiden, Netherlands, in July 2007. Both were a great success and it is hoped that ECAS 2009 in Leipzig will be just as interesting and thought-provoking. AEGIS was founded in 1991 as a network of European Centres of African Studies. It is a network of university and non-university African Studies centres based in Europe. It aims to create synergies between experts and institutions. With primary emphasis on Social Sciences and Humanities, AEGIS' main goal is to improve understanding about contemporary African societies. AEGIS current membership is Barcelona, Basel, Bayreuth, Bordeaux, Copenhagen, Edinburgh, Göteborg, Hamburg, Leiden, Leipzig, Lisbon, London, Mainz, Naples, Oxford, Paris, Porto, Trondheim and Uppsala.

For further details see http://www.aegis-eu.org.

On the following pages, you will find all relevant information on the conference in 2009. Should you have additional questions, please don't hesitate to contact us via Email: conference@aegis-eu.org.

Call for Papers: AEGIS Thematic Conference
Power Sharing Agreements in Africa: Implications for Peace, Democracy and Societal Trust

The GIGA Institute of African Affairs, based at Hamburg, is pleased to announce a conference on “Power Sharing Agreements in Africa: Implications for Peace, Democracy and Societal Trust”, to be held at Hamburg, in September / October 2009 (exact date will be specified by December 2008). 12 Commentators are invited to submit related papers.

Rationale
Power sharing is a prominent aspect of most recent African peace settlements (Kenya, Côte d'Ivoire, Burundi, Liberia, Sudan etc.), although there are important variations in the form power-sharing can take. Political, economic and military power sharing can be distinguished and all forms have distinctive meanings. Even more striking is the variation in the important question of who is sharing power with whom. Obviously, only those present at the negotiation table could really count on being included substantially in power sharing agreements. Recent academic contributions (Jarstad 2006, Paris 2004, Roeder 2005, Tull/Mehler 2005) have questioned the balance sheet of power sharing arrangements when analysing their impact on sustainable peace and/or democracy. In its simplest form the argument goes as follows: violent political entrepreneurs benefit primarily from those arrangements, they get rewarded for using violence in the first place. Power sharing arrangements sideline civilian and peaceful opposition forces. The lesson is therefore a problematic one for both peace and democracy: violence pays, democratic behaviour not. Less clear-cut is the argumentation on (transitional) institutional set-up: On the one hand, concrete power sharing arrangements frequently are at odds with democracy with regard to the widening of veto positions and limitations to majority rule, but on the other hand this might be the only way to preserve minority rights. A further problematic element is the role of outside mediators who more often than not advocate power sharing without questioning long-term effects. Often it is them to decide who is sitting at the negotiation table. A long-term process of building societal trust may be harmed by this intervention. Finally, the local level of both conflict escalation and conflict resolution may not be adequately captured by power sharing agreements that focus predominantly on the “partition of the national cake.”

This thematic conference in the AEGIS framework draws on a wide variety of disciplinary approaches (anthropology, history, sociology, peace studies, political science) and country experiences. The aim is to contribute to the state-of-the-art of social sciences and provide a forum for professional exchange to participating scholars and the public.

Three consecutive panels are proposed:

1. Power sharing and peace: quick, dirty and prone to failure?
2. Power sharing and democracy: elite pacts versus formal rules
3. Power sharing and the local arena: what part for societal trust?

Cutting-edge papers applying systematic as well as comparative methods on the above subjects are invited. Case studies on Burundi, Côte d’Ivoire, DR Congo, Kenya, South Africa, and Sudan (Southern/GoS, not Darfur) are most welcome. Papers on other country cases can also be submitted.

Submissions:
Please submit an Abstract of your paper to mehler@giga-hamburg.de before 26 October 2008 (AEGIS member institutes deadline). Abstracts (about 150-400 words) should include title, name of presenter(s), institutional affiliation and contact information. You will receive a notification of acceptance latest by 25 November 2008. The deadline for the final papers is 15 August 2009, please send them to the above address.

All accepted papers will be accessible on the GIGA homepage. All will then be peer-reviewed. The best four contributions are published in a special issue of “Afrika Spectrum”, GIGA’s SSCI-rated international journal.

Conference: The Politics of Epidemics in Africa

Historical Association of Ghana Department of History, University of Ghana, Accra

The two-day conference will take place in Accra on November 17 and 18, 2008 to coincide with the 100th anniversary of the end of the bubonic plague epidemic in Ghana (then the Gold Coast). This conference will use the occasion to discuss epidemic disease in general and increase dialogue between academics, policymakers, and the general public regarding epidemic preparedness and policy. Understanding why certain epidemics receive more attention and resources than other epidemics requires an investigation of the politics of disease control. Experts from various fields, including public health and health policy, medical anthropology, history of medicine, and others, will be presenting.

Conference on Dress, Popular Culture, and Social Action in Africa

Organized as part of the Program for African Studies Sixty Year Anniversary at Northwestern University, March 13-14, 2009 by Professors Karen Tranberg Hansen (Anthropology) and D. Soyini Madison (Performance Studies).

How does dress in particular and popular culture in general constitute and inspire social action? The dressed body readily becomes a flash point of conflicting values, fueling contests in historical encounters, in interactions across class, between genders and generations, and in recent global cultural, and economic exchanges. Popular culture as mass circulations of expressive forms rising from day-to-day discourse and action becomes the real and imagined reflections of the complicity and contestation, the desire and discontent, of power and its machinations. This interdisciplinary conference focuses on the dynamic range of micro and macro social action and how it is generated, sustained, and may culminate into transnational social movements that are enlivened by dress and popular culture. This two-day event will involve established and up-and-coming scholars (with a preference for graduate students) in small panel presentations, visual, and performance events. Abstracts of 250 words are due by December 1, 2008. Please contact conference assistant, Andrea Seligman, with questions or submissions at AndreaSeligman2012@u.northwestern.edu.

CALL: LANGUAGE IN AFRICAN PERFORMING AND VISUAL ARTS: GLOBAL TRENDS, ISSUES AND PERSPECTIVES

A Conference hosted by the Yale Program in African Languages at the Yale Council on African Studies, OCTOBER 2-4, 2008

As the world continues to become more and more of a global village - especially through the power of the Internet and electronic media, transfer of cultural practices has become the norm. However the cultures of those with global economic and political power have tended to overshadow those of countries whose influence is local. This conference will bring together scholars across disciplines to discuss trends in African popular cultures and how these have impacted African languages.

The conference will investigate some of the developments in the performing and visual arts in Africa, with special focus on choice and forms of language used. We will ask how African languages have changed in this new environment and look at some of the reworking of oral tradition, at works influenced by time spent outside Africa, and at new worldwide markets for products of popular African culture composed in African languages and argots.

Yale Program in African Languages invites papers addressing this theme or one of the following sub-themes:

- Language and electronic and print media
- Language and visual arts
• Language and performing arts
• Popular culture and technology
• Popular culture and HIV/AIDS
• Language in sports and leisure
• Popular culture and urban language varieties
• Fiction and publishing
• Language and fashion and design

Send abstracts via Email (preferred) to african.studies@yale.edu or via Fax to: 203-432-5963.
Abstracts should be 300 words, and should be received by May 31, 2008.

Third Global Congress of Women in Politics and Governance will be held on October 19-22, 2008 at the Dusit Hotel, Makati City, Metro Manila, Philippines. The theme of the congress is "Gender and Climate Change".

Women and environment experts have raised concern over the absence of women in the discourse and debate on climate change, a global mainstream issue that is currently impacting the entire world. The involvement of women in areas of environmental management and governance should not be perceived as an afterthought. Women's roles are of considerable importance in the promotion of environmental ethics.

The current imperative is for women to understand the phenomenon of climate change and its impacts and implications at the individual, household, community and national levels. Studies show that women have a definite information deficit on climate politics and climate protection. Only with this information can women take their proper, significant and strategic role in the issue of climate change.

Invited to this congress are women parliamentarians, women in decision-making and governance, environment organizations, youth Leaders and Media Practitioners. The Congress will have the following objectives:

- Overall Purpose: To provide a forum for women legislators, and women in decision making and environment organizations at all levels, in formulating gender-responsive legislation and policies.
- Specific Objectives:
  a) To understand the phenomenon of climate change, its impacts and implications; b) to review and examine the gender aspects of climate change and formulate appropriate actions to address such; c) to define the roles women can play in addressing the issues of climate change at the global, national and sub-national levels; and d) to identify and define the action agenda for parliamentarians, policy advocates and women leaders to support global and national actions to adapt to and mitigate the impacts of climate change.

Congress Proceedings:

The discussion on gender and climate change will be organized around identifying the challenges to action as well as defining the appropriate responses to effectively address the impacts of climate change. Inputs to the discussion will be collected and organized around: 1) geographic location and 2) types of actions: i.e. preparedness, risk reduction: building community resilience; adaptation; and mitigation. Cross cutting these discussions will be the identification of technologies in aid of responding to climate change.

The focus of the discussions will revolve around defining and elaborating actions (i.e. preparedness, disaster risk reduction, adaptation, and mitigation) to cope with climate change and its impacts.

Preparedness and disaster risk reduction is about building individual and community capacities to position themselves and their communities so that the likelihood of climate change-induced disasters is reduced; the intensity or adverse impacts of disasters are cushioned and that inhabitants are able to respond promptly, expeditiously and effectively. Adaptation entails actions that moderate harm, or exploit benefits, of climate change. Mitigation entails actions that minimizes or cushions the adverse impacts of climate change. In all of these actions, special attention will be given to defining how women and gender could be mainstreamed. In other words, the Congress should define how women can be given the social space to participate, influence, and benefit from global and local responses to climate change.

The registration fee for the four day congress is one hundred eight thousand Philippine Pesos (P108,000). per person for single room accommodations and Eighty eight thousand Philippine Pesos (P88,000). per person for twin room sharing accommodations (two persons in one room). We are sending you the detailed information sheet (which contains the registration form) as an attachment to this email.

The training will be held on Oct 19-22, 2008. However, the participants will be requested to be in Manila the day before, October 18, 2008 and leave Manila only on October 23, 2008. The overnight hotel accommodation on October 18, 2008 is already included in the fee. Participants will be billeted in the Dusit Hotel, the venue of the congress and hotels near the Dusit Hotel, accessible within walking distance. Room accommodations in the Dusit Hotel, the venue of the Congress will be on a first come - first served basis.

♦ South African Journal of International Affairs

Now celebrating its 15th year of publication, the South African Journal of International Affairs (SAJIA) is going commercial!!

The South African Journal of International Affairs (SAJIA) is the flagship publication of the South African Institute of International Affairs (SAIIA), an independent, non-governmental think-tank based in Johannesburg.

We have recently contracted with Taylor & Francis, an international commercial publisher, to publish the SAJIA. In doing so, we join a prestigious stable of international academic journals. While the Journal remains under the editorial control of the Institute, increased promotional and marketing activity by the new publisher will ensure that we achieve an even wider distribution in Africa and across the globe.

The SAJIA is a vital and strategic component of the SAIIA’s mandate to educate, inform and facilitate dialogue amongst people concerned with South Africa and Africa in the world. We proactively seek articles by leading African academics, policymakers, journalists and business leaders (especially those based outside South Africa), and also welcome unsolicited submissions.

We also wish to announce the following important news:

• The Journal has a new Editor, Anne J. Gordon, who brings with her 35 years of experience of research, writing and editing on a wide range of international and development issues. The National Director of the SAIIA, Elizabeth Sidiropoulos, remains in her position as Editor-in-Chief.

• The Journal will also have a new look, along with some other possible changes to the format. New “Guidelines for Contributors” will be available on the SAIIA website by the end of February 2008.

• From 2009, the Journal will publish three issues per year, and will therefore be actively seeking submissions. We will continue to commission articles, especially for special issues, but we are looking for unsolicited contributions which fit within the parameters of the “Call for Papers”.

For more information, see the SAIIA website, www.saiia.org.za, or contact Anne Gordon, Editor, by e-mail at sajia.editor@saiia.org.za.

Dafur: a new history of a long war
Julie Flint and Alex de Waal

Written by two authors with unparalleled first-hand experience of Darfur, who provide an authoritative and compelling account of contemporary Africa's most controversial conflict.

Paperback: £12.99, ISBN: 9781842779507

Britain in Africa
Tom Porteous

Why has Africa become such an important priority for Britain's foreign policy under New Labour? What interests and values is the UK seeking to uphold by intervening? Why has aid to Africa more than tripled over the past decade? What about the ‘war on terror’?

Tom Porteous, a journalist with much Africa experience and currently the London director of Human Rights Watch, seeks to answer these and other questions about Britain's role in Africa since 1997. He provides an account of the key players, the policies constructed in the shadows of the war in Iraq, and sets out the future prospects for Britain's engagement with the continent.

‘...the most helpful and illuminating book on a Western country's foreign policy in Africa for a very long time. Porteous takes us behind the scenes into the policy world itself. Rarely have such intricacies been conveyed so compellingly.' – Jane Guyer, Johns Hopkins University

EDITORIAL SERIES

AEGIS/Brill Editorial series

Following the success of the 2005 AEGIS-sponsored European Conference of African Studies, the largest ever African Studies conference in Europe, AEGIS seeks to provide a new and much-needed venue for the publication of works drawn from the lively and expanding community of scholars with interests in Africa and its Diaspora.

The Series aims to publish books within the broad fields of study within the humanities and social sciences that would bring new approaches or innovative perspectives to the topics discussed. Titles will comprise works that could also reflect established debate within African Studies if they provide new insights.

Both individually-authored works and edited collections on focused themes will be considered. Included among Series authors will be both senior and junior scholars and preference may be given to newly established scholars that may benefit from this new outlet for publication.

The Series operates according to an academic review and publication process. Books will be released simultaneous in hardback and paperback editions. Discounted purchase prices will be offered to AEGIS members as well as to scholars in Africa.

Authors are requested to submit a prospectus (of no more than 1000 words) providing a summary of the work, a description of its intended audience, a word count, and the current status of the manuscript.

The Deadline for submission of prospectus is 30 November 2008.

The prospectus should be accompanied by a brief cover letter and CV, and sent to:

Africa in Development Series with Peter Lang International Academic Publishers
While African Development remains a preoccupation, policy craftsmen and a multiplicity of domestic and international actors have been engaged in the quest for solutions to the myriad problems associated with poverty and underdevelopment. This series is designed to encourage innovative thinking on a broad range of development issues. Thus its remit extends to all fields of intellectual inquiry with the aim to highlight the advantages of interdisciplinary perspective.
The series welcome proposals from collected papers as well as monographs from recent PhDs no less than from established scholars. Book proposals should be sent to the Editor Dr J Senghor: jcsenghor@yahoo.com

V SCHOOL PRIZES
There is no information available on the website about School Prizes. Those required to make nominations are so informed by the Scholarships Officer (as100@soas.ac.uk).

The Prizes given annually by the School are:

Undergraduate School Prizes 2007/2008

The Scholarships Committee has reviewed the Undergraduate School Prizes, which have at various times been called penultimate year and Year 2 prizes. However, both formulations have had their problems. Please note that the Committee has made use of a new formulation to be used for the Undergraduate School Prizes which is as follows:

There are 18 Undergraduate School Prizes

a. each Examinations Sub-board is asked to submit the name of: 1) the best year 2 student who is registered at SOAS for a three-year degree; or 2) the best year 2 student going abroad on their third year who is registered at SOAS for a four-year degree; or 3) the best year 3 student who went abroad on their second year who is registered at SOAS for a four-year degree.

b. the Prize is awarded to the student who, in the opinion of the sub-board and with consultation with the Head of Department, has most distinguished him/herself during the academic year through course work, examination results and other relevant criteria.

c. the Prize of £90 takes the form of an award of book tokens.

d. Prizes may not be split and therefore only one student can be nominated and awarded the Prize.

e. The names should be submitted by the Chairs of the Undergraduate Sub-Board of Examiners to the Scholarships Officer in the Undergraduate School Prize Nomination form, which will be e-mailed to the Chairs in May.

f. Unspent Prize money cannot be carried over

g. If, in the opinion of the Examinations Sub-Board, it is felt that there is no candidate who has sufficiently distinguished him/herself to merit a Prize, the Scholarships Officer must be informed that there is no nomination.

The closing date for nominations is Friday 4 July 2008.

Three Prizes will be awarded to those finalists who, in the opinion of the School Board of Examiners, have most distinguished themselves throughout their programme of study.

Nominations should be submitted by the Chair of the School Board of Examiners to the Scholarships Officer in the Undergraduate Finalist Prize Nomination form, which will be e-mailed to the Chair in May. The Prize takes the form of a cheque for £150.
The closing date for nominations is Friday 5 July 2009.

Taught Masters' Prizes 2006/2007

Four Prizes are awarded to successful taught master degree students who, in the opinion of the Advisory Panel, have most distinguished themselves in all elements of the assessment for Taught Masters degrees in the academic session 2006/07.

Nominations should be submitted by the Chair of the Examination Boards for Taught Masters to the Scholarships Officer in the Postgraduate School Prize Nomination form, which was e-mailed to the Chair in October.

The Prize takes the form of a cheque for £100.

The closing date for nominations is Friday 25 January 2009.

Study of Religions Language Prize (Humphrey J Fisher Prize) 2007/2008

In the past years, the Humphrey J Fisher Prize for religion and language was awarded each year to the best penultimate year student taking religion and language. However, the reason we felt that the prize should not refer exclusively to penultimate-year students was that some students who went abroad did not get marks at all for the year abroad and were given 4 units credit for successful complete of the year abroad. This meant that no results were available for the Chair of the Sub-Board of Examiners to consider for the performance in the year abroad.

Therefore, it has been agreed that the Humphrey J Fisher Prize for Religions and Language should now be awarded as follows:

For a three year degree, the Prize for Religions and Language would relate to meritorious work on both sides of the degree in the 1st and 2nd year.

For a four year degree, the Prize would relate to:

1) meritorious work on both sides of the degree in the 1st and 2nd year for students going abroad during their third year

2) meritorious work on both sides of the degree in the 1st and 3rd year (and possibly 2nd year provided there are results available) for students going abroad during their 2nd year.

Programmes such as African Studies and Study of Religions, South Asian Studies and Study of Religions and South East Asian Studies and Study of Religions would also be eligible provided there is a significant language component i.e. only students who take more than 1 language-acquisition course per year could be considered for this prize.

The Prize of £90 takes the form of an award of book tokens.

The closing date for nominations is Friday 5 July 2009. The nomination should be submitted by the Chair of the Undergraduate Examination Sub-board (Study of Religions) to the Scholarships Officer in the Humphrey J Fisher Prize for Religion and Language nomination form, which will be e-mailed to the Chair in May.

Full Economic Costing
The British Academy has been given resources by its funding body, the Office of Science and Technology (OST), to meet 80% of the Full Economic Costs (FEC) of research in four schemes:

- Research Leave Fellowships
- Postdoctoral Fellowships
- Larger Research Grants
• Visiting Fellowships

The remaining schemes are exempt from the FEC regime. The Academy has, however, been invited by the OST to collect robust data on the Full Economic Costs of research carried out under the Small Research Grants scheme, and the various international schemes, with a view to bringing these programmes within the FEC environment at a later stage. The Academy will be most grateful for the cooperation of the UK academic community in gathering this information.

The British Academy has introduced a new scheme for mid-career scholars to enable them to develop a significant research project. The British Academy Research Development Awards (BARDA) scheme replaces the previous programmes for Research Leave Fellowships and Larger Research Grants. Applications are particularly encouraged from scholars who can demonstrate that they are developing an innovative line of research, with the potential to make a significant difference to their field and to their career profile. Awards are tenable for up to three years, at up to £150,000 FEC. The deadline for applications is 15 October 2008 for awards to be taken up after April 2008. The Economic and Social Research Council (ESRC), in funding partnership with the Office of the Third Sector (OTS) and The Barrow Cadbury Trust wish to commission an independent, multidisciplinary Research Centre for the Third Sector. The Centre will develop knowledge and expertise about, with and for the Third Sector, to include the Voluntary and Community Sector and Social Enterprise, bringing together a critical mass of research expertise, resources and intellectual leadership to support research of the highest international standing, to provide top quality analysis and provide the necessary evidence base to better understand key Third Sector issues and underpin policy and practice.

The initiative will support a single Research Centre, although where the necessary range of capabilities cannot be drawn from the departments or schools of a single institution, formal partnerships between institutions are appropriate. The Research Centre will be supported by three Capacity Building Clusters, aiming to create a new generation of high quality researchers committed to the co-production of knowledge and its application to the Third Sector.

A total of £10.25million is currently available for the initiative as a whole. Under this call, proposals are invited for the Research Centre (up to £9million FEC over five years) and each Capacity Building Cluster (up to £1million over five years).

The Martin Lynn Scholarship.
Thanks to the generosity of the family of the late Martin Lynn, the Royal Historical Society has pleasure in announcing the establishment of an annual award in his memory. Martin Lynn was Professor of African History in the Queen’s University, Belfast, the first scholar to hold a chair in African history in Ireland. His scholarly career was devoted to the history of West Africa and he published most extensively and importantly on the 19th and 20th century history of Nigeria. His scholarly achievements were matched by the reputation he enjoyed as an exciting and concerned teacher and a delightful, generous colleague and friend.
This new award reflects the interests of the man it commemorates. Annually the Society will make an award of up to £1,000 to assist an historian pursuing postgraduate research on a topic in African history. Eligible students will be registered with a university history department in the United Kingdom and will have successfully completed their first year of full time or first two years of part-time study by the time the award is taken up. Applicants intending to use the award to carry out research within Africa will be especially welcomed.
The closing date for applicants will be May 31st, 2009. Potential applicants should use the form on the Society’s website, www.rhs.ac.uk.

DelPHE Round 4: Call for Applications

On 8 September 2008, DelPHE launched its fourth call for applications. Between £15,000 and £50,000 per year is available for new partnerships

What is DelPHE?

The principal aim of DelPHE is to help Higher Education Institutions (HEIs) to contribute to poverty reduction and sustainable development in their home countries and regions. DelPHE addresses this by supporting partnerships that focus on the UN's Millennium Development Goals (MDGs).

HEIs in 22 target countries are eligible to lead applications for DelPHE. HEIs in any country worldwide are eligible to participate as partners.

DelPHE is supported through £3 million per annum by the UK Department for International Development (DFID). The programme is managed by the British Council and supported by the ACU.

What is the ACU's role?

The ACU encourages and supports south-south bilateral and multi-lateral collaborations, through providing support to project developers over the course of drafting their proposals and in matching partner interests. If you are considering developing a south-south DelPHE application, please contact the ACU at delphe@acu.ac.uk, and we will be glad to provide you with direct assistance with the application process.

What are the outcomes?
It is expected that successful projects will live on beyond the period of DelPHE funding and will continue to address MDGs in the home country and region. Partnerships should aim to deliver specific results in the following areas:

- Joint research studies/publications which may then be fed into wider policy reform
- Revisions to, or development of, new courses which are relevant to country needs
- Professional development and staff training
- Increased practical support for gender parity
- Improved networking between partner HEIs
- Improved management and administration within institutions in the focus countries

How to apply

Please visit the ACU website at http://www.acu.ac.uk/delphe/delphe.html for more information about how the ACU supports south-south applications, or to learn more about our networking opportunities for university extension workers and community engagement professionals.

Please visit the British Council website at http://www.britishcouncil.org/delphe for application forms and guidelines, information on application deadlines, information on focus countries, to access a project search database and a partner finding service, and for other information about past rounds of DelPHE.

Contact

All general enquiries about the scheme can be sent to the British Council at delphe@britishcouncil.org.

All enquiries about the ACU’s south-south advisory role can be sent to delphe@acu.ac.uk.

Welcome to the Treasures of SOAS at the Foyle Special Collections Gallery

Objects of Instruction: Treasures of the School of Oriental and African Studies is an important project aimed at publicising the School's remarkably rich but little known artistic and archival collections. Generously funded by the Foyle Foundation and the AHRC, the exhibition will make the artistic assets of SOAS accessible to a wider audience, including students, scholars, and members of the general public.

Among this wealth of material are illustrated Islamic manuscripts, including a luxurious Mughal copy of the Anvar-i Suhayli, a book of animal fables; Chinese and Japanese paintings and prints; varied ceramic objects from the Middle East and East Asia; decorative Buddhist manuscripts and sculptures from South-East Asia; contemporary African paintings and textiles; and important archaeological collections from East Asia, South Asia and the Middle East. Many of these objects are true treasures whose display is long overdue. The content will be periodically rotated, which will ensure the vitality and continued appeal of the permanent display.

Objects of Instruction will not only significantly enhance the image of the School as a unique institution with a strong involvement in the arts, but will also be of great interest and benefit to a broad range of groups. Foremost among these are students, for whom the exhibition and display will provide stimulating teaching aids as well as exciting opportunities for research. The wider community - in particular those whose cultures the artefacts represent - will benefit from the project. Objects of Instruction will thus be of considerable, far-reaching, and enduring importance, and will finally make known the richness and variety of the School's artistic and archival holdings.

National Gallery

Scratch the Surface' is part of the National Gallery's contribution to a range of activities and events commemorating the 200th anniversary of the 1807 Act to abolish the British trade in African people. Although the Act did not end slavery itself, it was the first attempt by the British to legally bring the trade to a close.
In this exhibition we examine the role that the slave trade played in the lives of two people featured in portraits in our collection: Zoffany's portrait of 'Mrs Oswald' and Sir Joshua Reynolds's 'Colonel Tarleton'.

Colonel Tarleton, as MP for Liverpool in the 1790s, argued very strongly in Parliament against the abolition of the trade. Mrs Oswald, along with her husband Richard Oswald, owed part of their wealth to a number of plantations in the Americas. The painting of Mrs Oswald was bought by the Gallery in 1938, while the Tarleton portrait was bequeathed to the Gallery by one of his descendants in the early 1950s.

As part of the exhibition, 2004 Turner Prize nominee, Yinka Shonibare MBE, has been invited to create a new installation in response to these two portraits. This stunning new work will go on display in the Barry Rooms.

Other events commemorating the anniversary include related film screenings and Talks at 1pm every Wednesday in September explore Scratch the Surface. Highlights include Yinka Shonibare, MBE, discussing the creation of his installation (5 September), and an exploration of the politics of dress, with exhibition costume maker Mary Charlton.

Some areas of the Gallery will be closed for staff training on Monday mornings until 11am.
