~~The Defendant set up a most specious and meddling disposition
~~in originating in matters well known to the Court and seeking to pursue to a conclusion in litigation and process.~~~~

One instance of that tendency may be mentioned in the well known reported case of Howard v. Thom - that action was instigated by the Defendant who improperly obtained and afterwards gave up the private & privileged communications upon which it was founded.

It will be remembered that in consequence of a slight personal difference between himself and Mr. Stimpson the Defendant about June 1852 sought out and introduced himself to Mr. and Mrs. Davis (see the Defence of The Innocent p. 4: 5 and 6) and has ever since acted as their adviser and champion in the matters to be subsequently narrated.

~~Through the proceedings in this cause it will be seen that the questions introduced in the issues joined are of the last importance not only to the parties to it - but to other individuals and more especially to Mr. and Mrs. Davis.~~

The first count in the Declaration is founded upon 2 paragraphs of the Defendants pamphlet the Defence of the Innocent which will be found
